

Leather flying jacket, worth £550!

Cirrus tailors has been handcrafting iconic flying jackets and luxury leather goods since 1982, producing authentic WWII flying jackets in-house, in Norfolk.

Uniquely, the company offers bespoke, made to measure flying jackets, leather jackets and luggage. Cirrus also custom-makes jackets and bags to your design, within reason, and can reproduce your well-worn 'old favourite'.

Sheepskins and leather are hand-cut in the workshop, each flying jacket made by a single tailor using traditional methods. It takes more than 16 hours to hand craft a flying jacket and even longer for many of the luggage pieces. Cirrus believes it is vital to retain these important skills in the UK and always welcome visitors to its Harleston workshop.
